

Commissioned Research

Our County Genealogy Centres will carry out commissioned research and offer an advisory service. Our researchers have twenty five years experience using the genealogical sources of their counties, which, coupled with their unique local knowledge, can offer you the best possible guidance and assistance in locating your Irish ancestry.

If you cannot locate the ancestors that you seek there is a full professional research service available at our centres; we offer a fixed fee for a single birth, death or marriage search. Our researchers can determine which, if any, of the records relates to your ancestor. If we locate an ancestor we can also check for siblings and make further research proposals.

The IFHF and its members centres operate on a not for profit basis with revenues going towards the continued computerization of data and the provision of an online service.

Online Research Facility

Those wishing to trace their Irish ancestry can now access a central website dedicated to providing access to all the available Irish genealogical records on the island of Ireland. The website is an initiative of the Irish Family History Foundation who, with its cross-border network of local centres, is the largest provider of professional family history research services in Ireland. It contains birth, baptismal, marriage, death, census and gravestone records from the 1600s to the 1900s.

Each county genealogy centre has created a local computer database comprised of various church records of baptisms, marriages & deaths; civil records of births, deaths & marriages; Griffith's Valuation; Tithe Applotment Books; the 1901 & 1911 census records; gravestone inscriptions, and many other sources.
